

What is God doing during Covid?: Interview with Tom Schaeffer

In this season we will look at what God has been doing during the crisis of Covid19. We have a God of hope who takes terrible situations and turns them to good. During difficult times we tend to focus on the challenges rather than on Him. God is always moving, working and blessing. We hope to inspire and encourage your church during a difficult time.

Tom Schaefer is a pioneer for God! He has years of experience in inventing and creating ways to connect people to God. He brings over 30 years of pastoral experience to the table. He is currently serving as pastor of Faith United Lutheran Church in Toledo, OH.

Keep on improving.

There are many challenges that require new learning and skills for pastors, ministry leaders, and active Christians. Don't worry about where you start in the skill or knowledge. Keep learning and keep working to get better. Learn from your mistakes. If you fail, fail forward. Failure is an opportunity to learn and grow.

The expansion of the Good News.

Bringing the Gospel online has brought record numbers of people watching church online. Many people of different faiths are able to hear the Gospel maybe for the first time!

Both and opportunities

We need to learn to move forward as a hybrid church to be both online and in person. God uses the internet as a medium to reach unbelievers. The internet is a far bigger medium than radio or T.V. When using new technology work towards excellence not perfection. Make sure it is good quality, but it doesn't have to be polished.
